

ERASMUS+ TRAINEESHIP FORM

Profile of the Host Department /Service at CUT:

School of Management and Economics, Cyprus University of Technology

Main Responsibilities

Please provide a short Description of the main responsibilities of the trainee:

This role is a unique opportunity for ambitious interns to collaborate with a network of international academics from Cyprus University of Technology, University of Glasgow, and University of Cambridge among others, in research projects that fall within the sphere of Competitive Strategy. The involvement of the intern will be extended to an array of different research projects contingent on the project's stage of development. The research projects entail topics in firms' Corporate Social Responsibility, Strategic Diversification, International strategy, among others. Working alongside with his/her mentor, the intern will be involved in various aspects of scientific research, such as reviewing the relevant literature, discussing with the team potential contributions to existing knowledge, collecting and analyzing data with advanced statistical tools. This is a pivotal role within our research team. Moreover, the intern may be involved in various administrative tasks, such as assisting in developing and revising various official documents, finding and applying under European funded programs, and participating in a planned survey of the School's alumni profile.

Knowledge, skills and competences to be acquired by the trainee at the end of the traineeship

Please provide a short Description:

This is a unique opportunity for the intern to gain insight and knowledge on current affairs concerning theoretical and empirical research in Competitive Strategy. The intern, by the end of the placement period, is expected to have advanced skills in finding and applying under European funded programs, contacting successfully with potential academic partners, and gaining competence in liaising fruitfully and efficiently with colleagues home and abroad.
